FIRE FIGHTERS OKEH PLANS FOR NEW HOME

A rising vote of thanks and full approval was accorded Architect Milton Latham by members of the Carmel fire department when they met to inspect tentative drawings of the proposed new fire house. The plans will be submitted to the city council at the next meeting, and preparations will be pushed for the bond election which will decide this long-agitated project.

A building with 55-foot frontage and 45-foot depth is envisioned by the architect. Completely fireproof, the plan calls for reinforced concrete construction, with exterior facing of Carmel sandstone as the appropriate indigenous material. On the ground floor are four stalls for apparatus, and four wide doors which rise automatically at the sound of an alarm. A concrete vault for a future alarm system, tool storage closet space and wash room complete the lower floor.

A stair tower, integral with the building but on the outside, so that it can be entered either from the street or the main room downstairs, and broken by two landings, leads to the second floor. Here will be a large recreation room, 37 by 17 feet, entered from the vestibule. To the left of the vestibule will be the small executive office, to the right a laboratory connected with three showers. The recreation room will have an open, raftered ceiling and at the far end will be a large open fireplace. On this room is a small but complete kitchen and three sleeping rooms. Two slide poles will carry the firemen in a hurry from the upper floor to the engines below.

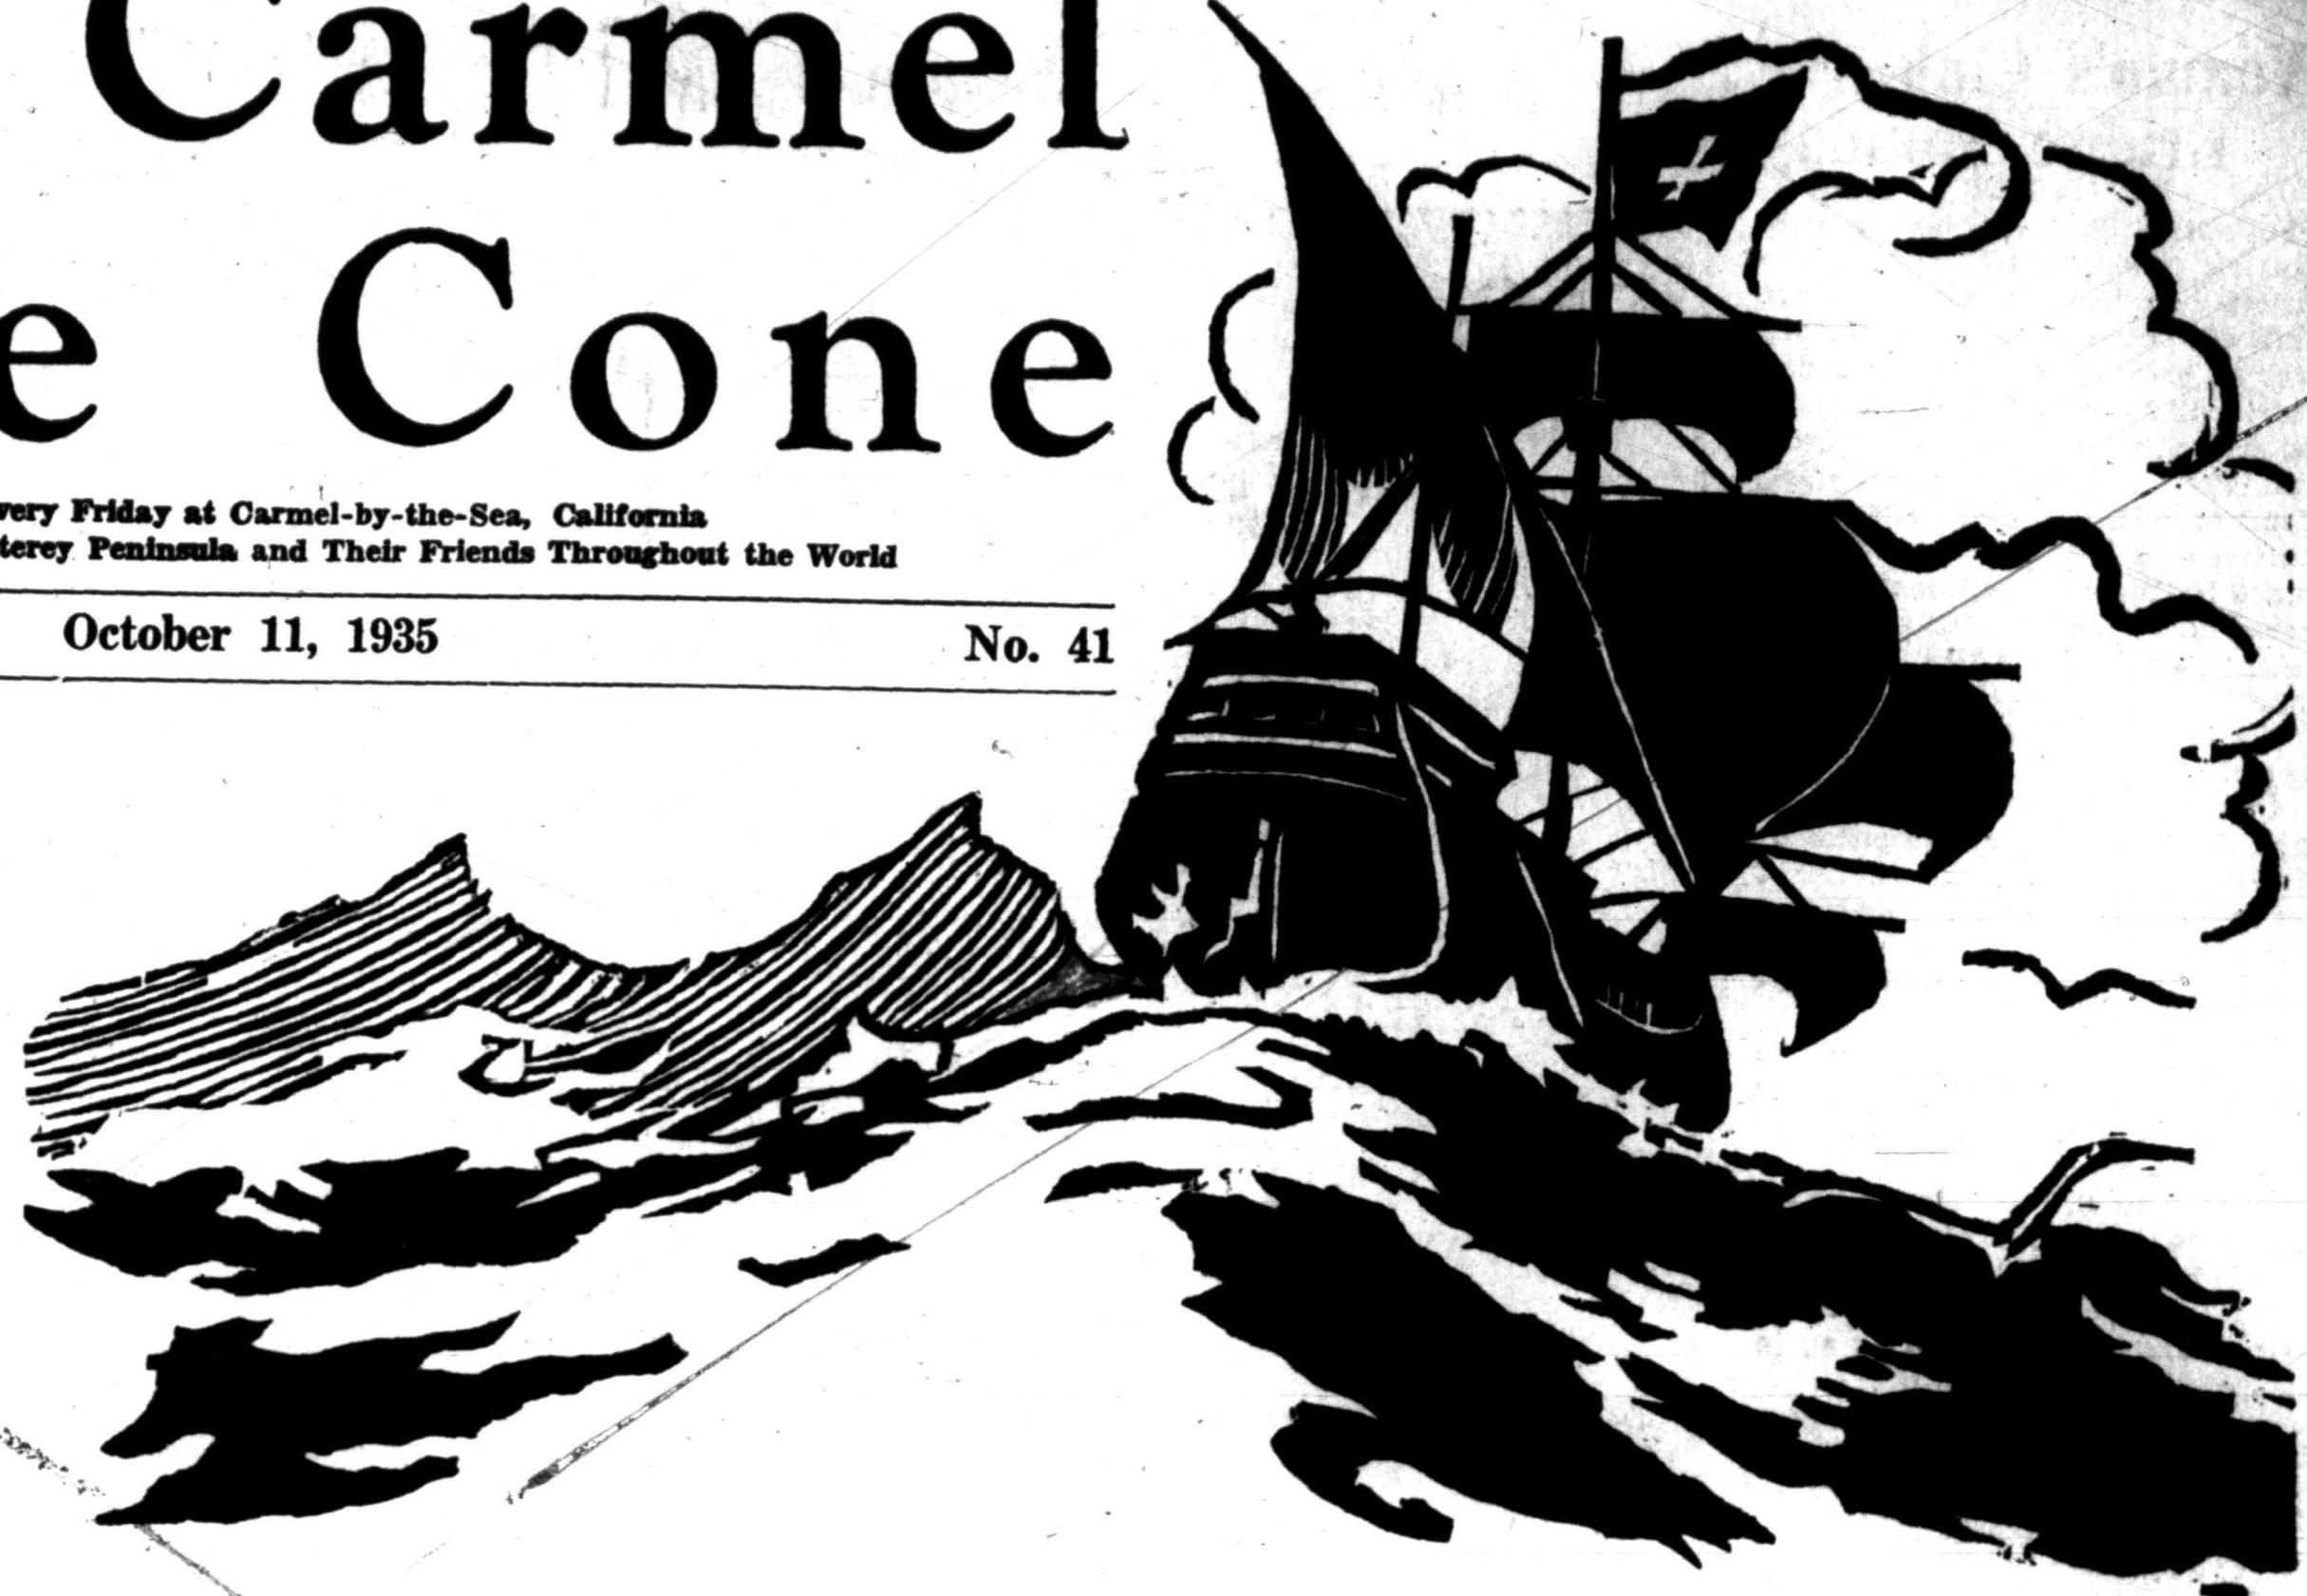

The rest of the second floor space will be occupied by drying racks for hose covers, extending from top to bottom of the building.

Carmel Liquor Suit Hearing Set Nov. 19

Carmel Development Company's suit against Carmel merchants allegedly violating the deed clause against sale of liquor on land purchased from the company, a perennial on the Salinas court calendar, is now set for hearing on Nov. 19. Various technicalities have dragged this test case over a period of years; an amended complaint filed recently with the court may bring it to an eventual conclusion. It is understood locally that according to the terms of the deeds by which land passed from the hands of the founding company, it is illegal not only to sell but to give liquor away.

MARY BULKLEY TO ADDRESS STUDY GROUP

Miss Mary Bulkley of Carmel will be the speaker at next Wednesday's meeting of the government and economic welfare study group of the League of Women Voters. The meeting will be held at Mission Inn in Monterey, at 2 o'clock. Her subject will be Social Credit.

— Undecided — Junipero Street Wilds Explored

Spending about two hours Wednesday morning in exploring on foot the untamed wilds of Junipero street, now a street by courtesy only, the official Junipero street widening project committee had a vigorous outing, but was able to reach no definite decision, due to the fact that County Engineer Cozzens was unable to join the group. Another meeting is to be held later, with a view to recommending a possible WPA project by which a wide, straight street would be carved through the forest primeval. Future needs of better ingress to town from the south is the reason for considering opening this street. All members of the committee participated in the hike, including Councilman John Catlin, Paul Mercurio, Helen Ware Burt, Francis Whitaker, Frank Cole and Dr. F. W. Haas.

Dougherty Painting In Carnegie Exhibit

With only 87 paintings by artists of the United States to be hung in the 33rd Carnegie International Exhibition of Modern Painting, Carmel feels a justifiable pride that one of its leading resident artists was one of the painters invited to exhibit. Paul Dougherty, medal-winner at a number of previous Carnegie Internationals, has responded to the invitation by sending to the show, which opens next Thursday, a new painting of the Arizona desert, which he calls "Desert Homestead."

The International will be on display in Pittsburgh until Oct. 8, after which the foreign section will be shown in Cleveland and Toledo.

CHIEF QUINN SPEAKS

Chief of Police Quinn of San Francisco was in Carmel last evening to address a meeting sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary, attended by Legionaries as well, on crime prevention.

Tirey L. Ford of San Mateo, accompanied by B. M. Hanson, New York attorney, stopped for a visit with Mr. Ford's brother, Byington Ford, en route to Los Angeles.

Forty Sierra Club Members Camping In This District

Forty members of California's famed Sierra Club, organized in 1892 and having for its main purpose exploration, enjoyment and preservation of the mountain regions of the Pacific Coast, are encamped for the week-end at Idlewild, at the foot of Pico Blanco. About half the number will climb the mountain and be guests of F. B. Duveneck and Dr. D. T. MacDougal at their cabin on the east side of this mountain Saturday and Sunday.

Favorable Report on Tennis Courts

Municipal tennis courts for Carmel moved a step forward this week when Mayor Thoburn's recreation committee headed by Councilman R. E. Brownell met and unanimously went on record for the construction of two courts in the sand dunes.

The committee comprising William Silva, E. W. Ewig, Winsor Joslyn and Ross C. Miller in addition to Chairman Brownell, made a trip to the dunes and tentatively chose a site for the courts in a secluded hollow near Del Mar and Ocean avenue.

The committee next week will submit its report to the city council and ask for quick action so that if the project is approved the financial support of WPA may be secured.

Sunset Student Body Installs Officers Today

New officers of Sunset school student body will be installed at an assembly to be held today: Tom Brown, president; Billy Frolli, vice president; Ann Millie, secretary; and Howard Levinson, business manager. A report will be given of the first meeting of the executive committee.

Reports on social studies subjects will be given by eighth grade pupils of Miss Anna Marie Baer, including one on Columbus Day, in recognition of the anniversary of the discovery of the new world, Oct. 12.

— Real Treat — Stanford Educational Leader to Talk at Open P-T. A. Meeting Tuesday

DR. PAUL R. HANNA, associate professor of education at Stanford and one of the nation's leaders in the field of progressive education, will be in Carmel next Tuesday evening to speak at Sunset auditorium at 8 o'clock. This is an open meeting sponsored by the P-T. A. and taking the place of the regular monthly afternoon meeting. It is an indication of the fine things planned this year by the P-T. A., and is Dr. Hanna's only speaking date this year before a P-T. A. Educators throughout the peninsula and the county are interested in the opportunity to hear this leader in their field and a large attendance is expected. His topic, "Recent Trends in Education" is one which will interest all parents of school children, and all concerned with the welfare and progress of the schools.

Dr. Hanna belongs to the school of educators which stresses realism in education, rather than the pure academic approach. He believes that children should be enabled to see the relationship between their school work and important events of the day, with life as they will participate in it as they grow older. He stresses the fact that children can and should be active participants in community life.

Dr. Hanna was born in Sioux City, Iowa, was educated at Hamlin University in St. Paul, took graduate degrees at Columbia. He has been assistant professor at Columbia teachers' college and research associate there. About ten years ago he was superintendent of schools at Westfield, N. Y., then became state consultant in the social sciences for the department of education of Virginia. He has been visiting professor for the summer session of Washington State College, University of Arkansas and other colleges. He is a member of the executive committee of the Society for Curriculum Study, Progressive Education Association and Social Frontiers. He has written six books for the elementary school and professional educational publications. He became associate professor of education at Stanford this summer.

Monte Verde Residents To Seek Sidewalk

Property owners along the east side of Monte Verde street from Seventh to Ninth are circulating and signing a petition to be presented to the city council, asking that a grade be established for a sidewalk for their convenience, and for the laying of a sidewalk of the same material as that used in surfacing streets, composed granite or clay, mixed with oil. The signers promise to pay for the improvement.

The sidewalk grade along a portion of this street is several feet higher than the street, and it is not clear whether the grade would remain at its present height, or be lowered to conform. If the latter course were followed, some of the property owners have pointed out, retaining walls would be necessary and driveways would have to be rebuilt.

Carmelite Dies on Motor Trip

Carmel was shocked to learn early this week of the death of Col. Clair Foster, for 12 years a resident here, while passing through Denver on a motor trip. Mrs. Foster was with him. Heart disease was given as the cause of death, and burial was in Denver. The Foster home here is on Dolores, between Thirteenth and Santa Lucia.

Col. Foster was born in Chicago, where he also passed his active professional life as builder and engineer. When he retired he came to Carmel to live, and made an active career of his hobby as an amateur in the short-wave radio field. Through world-wide connections built up in this manner he also performed many quiet acts of kindness, helping less fortunate brother-hobbyists.

Active politically, Col. Foster won the respect and admiration of many Carmelites, who commented this week on the loss of a prominent and valued citizen.

Woman's Club Bridge Monday

Following the opening general meeting Monday, activities of the various sections of the Woman's Club will be resumed next week. The first of these is the bridge section which will have its first meeting next Monday afternoon, Oct. 14, at Pine Inn. Play will begin at 2 o'clock. Members will make up their own foursomes, or single seats will be assigned to them. Refreshments will be served at the close of the afternoon. The new chairman is Mrs. John Jordan.

The first session of the book section will be held Wednesday, Oct. 16, at 10 o'clock in the morning, at Pine Inn. The program will be given by Mrs. Hurd Comstock, who will tell of her recent trip to New Zealand. The new books will be available to members at this time. The section chairman is Mrs. I. N. Ford.

The garden section will open its season Thursday, Oct. 10, at 10 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. Alfred Wolff, San Antonio and Ninth. The guest speaker will be Clyde Stocking of San Jose, who will give a talk on roses, illustrated with choice blooms of the newer varieties from his nurseries. Mrs. E. H. Yocom is again chairman of this section.

Myra Kinch Dance Group Here

MYRA KINCH HERSELF

TONIGHT is the first of the two an electric bit of modern rhythm dance concerts to be given by and movement; "Avance," a virile Myra Kinch, American dance artist, with Foy Badger, male dancer piece of martial spirit and modernistic design, and "Poeme Erotique," formerly of the Mordkin Ballet, and group, in the Denny-Watrous Gallery. The group consists of four young girls, skilled dancers. Accompanist is Manuel Galea, an artist whose Spanish heritage (he was born, son of a toreador, in Cadiz), gives him a natural feeling for rhythmic precision. Mr. Galea has received distinction as a composer and as an accompanist for the dance, in which he uses a form which might be called piano percussion.

Each evening's program presents a full ballet. Tonight features "Marco Polo," an exotic Chinese ballet, with music by Galea. Tomorrow's ballet is on a more religious theme, entitled "Renaissance." It is based on the redemption of the soul of Thais. The programs will begin promptly at 8:30.

FISHING TRIP ENJOYED BY SESSINK BOY CHORUS

Half-a-dozen members of Andrew Sessink's newly-organized boys chorus were guests of Mr. Sessink on a deep-sea fishing trip last Thursday. The lads caught two fish, which were reported to be so big that it took their combined manpower to land them. This is the first of a series of monthly outings which Mr. Sessink has planned for his young warblers.

STUDENTS VISIT BAKERY

With young Billy Wishart, second-grader, as a proud host, the second grade of Sunset school paid its annual visit to the Dolores bakery one afternoon last week, to see the wheels go around, the big ovens bake, and of course to enjoy a feast of cookies.

After several days' reunion in San Francisco with Col. and Mrs. C. G. Lawrence and Miss Charlotte, who was their chum in school days, Miss Harriet Damon and Miss Alice Castle of Honolulu have gone east.

Miss Helen McLachlen was away from her duties at Barnet Segal's office for several days this week.

Noel Sullivan and Henri Deering motored to San Francisco yesterday.

Mrs. Markham Johnston spent several days in Palo Alto last week.

Three Speakers on Legion Menu

Well attended by post members and visitors from Los Gatos, Salinas and Monterey was the monthly American Legion meeting held Monday evening at Legion-Manzanita hall. Col. C. G. Lawrence was in charge of the program, which was made enjoyable by three good speakers. As the headliner, Brigadier General Daniel W. Hand told of his experiences on active duty during the great Japanese earthquake of 1923, and described the part played by the United States army in relief work following the disaster.

B. T. Robley of Monterey, former actor and Chautauqua entertainer, gave a humorous talk and completed his act with the long epic poem about the two miners who went to see "Camille" and broke up the show—a near-classic in the repertoire of monologists.

Col. Lawrence took advantage of the fact that Robert Welles Ritchie, part-time Carmelite and famed as an international newspaper correspondent, was here for a visit, and secured him as an extra attraction. He discussed the Italian-Ethiopian situation and told of a secret interview he once had with Eamon De Valera.

During the business session James Regan was appointed captain of a team to assist with the Boy Scout drive. Refreshments and a social hour followed the program.

James Thoburn, assisted by Ernest Upshaw, will arrange the November meeting.

NADINE FOX ON PROGRAM COMMITTEE FOR SENIOR PLAY

Nadine Fox, Carmel girl, now a senior student at the University of California, has received an appointment to serve on the program committee of the senior informal hop. The hop, an annual affair for fourth-year students at the University, will be held in San Francisco on Oct. 26.

Miss Fox is a registered student in the College of Letters and Science at the university, where she is majoring in history, and a member of the Pi Beta Phi sorority.

LOCAL AUTHORS MENTIONED IN LITERARY WHO'S WHO

A number of Carmel's many authors have been included in a "Who's Who Among North American Authors" just published by a Los Angeles concern. The book covers the years 1934-35. It had an earlier edition in 1921. Local names which appear in the book are Robinson Jeffers, Anne Martin, Perry Newberry, Arthur Sullivan Hoffman, Preston Willis Search, Albert Rhys Williams, Lucita Squier Williams, Harry Leon Wilson and Hal Garrott.

Knitted Sweaters for Fall Wear Stressed

Several new features are stressed by the La Mode Sport Shop of Monterey during the fall season. Bee Brenner, manager, calls attention especially to the folly of tedious hand knitting of sweaters today, when her stock includes beautiful hand-knits at prices that compare favorably with the cost of materials for home knitting.

Among other new fall features at the La Mode are the new "Classy Lass" dresses which include either fall prints or plain materials with long or short sleeves, and which come in silks or woolens.

Men Included In Fashion Show Invitation at Holman's Tonight

MEN'S equality will be stressed at the fashion show which will be presented tonight at Holman's department store, Pacific Grove, beginning at 7:30.

Styles and colors in men's clothing will be featured equally with the latest for women and even children, so that the whole family will have an opportunity to make a party of the event together, and to learn that clothes make the family, as well as the man, woman and child.

The style show will be held on the main floor of Holman's store with a large orchestra furnishing music during the event. A public address system will make it possible for every person to hear a complete description of each garment as it is displayed.

There will also be exhibits of new and novel equipment for the home and every department in the store will hold open house for the pleasure of the guests. The public is invited to attend and to remain for refreshments which will be served in the solarium on the Holman roof.

Among those who will model in the style show will be Mrs. Will Parker, Mrs. Edward Francis, Mrs. Ralph M. Powers, Miss Catherine Bates, Miss Betty Lou Wilson and Miss Harriet Holman. Men's styles will be modelled by Messrs. Marlowe Jones, Leo McCoy and Carl Gustafson. Junior models will be Gwendeth Brown, Mary Louise and Patricia Fullington, Alice Joy Bentley, Shirley LaPorte and Nannie Easterbrook.

Another feature of the style show announced today concerns the younger generation, especially those of college age. The girls leagues of the Pacific Grove and Monterey High Schools have selected one girl each on the basis of popularity, personality, health, etc., to model clothes adapted for the young senior high school and college girl.

Miss Jane Mosher won the honor for Pacific Grove, while Peggy Gorham will be the model chosen from Monterey High.

Ancient and Modern Exhibit Big Success

Opened yesterday and continuing today is the second annual ancient and modern handicraft exhibit of All Saints guild, at the parish house, one of the most comprehensive displays of antiques and interesting novelties ever assembled here. Because Carmelites are great travelers, visiting many out-of-the-way foreign points, and because there are many representatives of fine old families here, who value and guard interesting heirlooms, few communities of this size could boast a show of such interest and value. A large attendance marked the opening, and many visitors are expected today between the hours of 2 o'clock and 8.

Judge Wood Playing Chess Game by Radio

To some 100 chess games which he is carrying on by mail, with correspondents as far away as Virginia and New Jersey, Police Judge George Wood has this week added a novel game played by short-wave radio, with an opponent in Honolulu. A radio amateur in San Mateo is broadcasting his moves to a Honolulu amateur. This is the first known game of chess by radio. Ordinary games, of 30 to 40 moves each, are completed in about six months. The Honolulu game, due to the long wait between post cards while played by mail, has been going on since a year ago last April.

C. A. P. Peacock and his daughter, of Berkeley, are in their cottage on Casanova for a week.

Musical Art Club • In Monthly Meeting

Miss Helen Goold and Mrs. Frances Schreiman gave the program for the monthly meeting of the Musical Art Club at the Van Ess-McGowan home in the Country Club Tuesday evening. Miss Goold, new director of music at Monterey high school, presented piano solos among which were a Schumann Novelette, the rondo from the Mozart A major sonata, Paderewski Scherzino and a Chopin number. Mrs. Schreiman sang "Love Came Creeping Into My Heart" by Brown; "Nocturne" by Curran; "Sweet Song of Long Ago" by Charles; and "Luxemburg Gardeens" by Manning. Her accompanist was Donna Bisnett.

After the program, which was arranged by Leonard Abinante, the auditors grouped around the piano and thoroughly enjoyed an hour of informal ensemble singing, to accompaniments provided by Miss Bisnett, Winifred Howe and Dene Denney.

Sunset Students See Fine Movie

Coordinating with current class work of the fifth and sixth grade at Sunset school, now studying "beginnings," was the six-reel educational film shown at the school Tuesday morning by O. L. Eckman of the Monterey county visual education department. Entitled "The Tree of Life" the picture portrays the origin of the earth and the development of life upon the planet. While all the upper grade pupils—from four to eight—found the picture fascinating, it was a special thrill to the fifth and sixth graders.

A group of girls from these two grades had further dramatized their study with a dance program which they presented in the assembly last Friday. Under the direction of Miss Althea Kendall the children portrayed the nebulous mass before the orderly arrangement of the solar system, showed how bits of the mass flew off, cooled into stars and planets.

Building Repairs and Clean-ups Prevent Fires

OLD CARMEL BUILDING TO HAVE NEW FRONT

One of Carmel's oldest buildings is being completely remodeled by Hugh Comstock. The Carmel Inn, on San Carlos, will emerge with a new, attractive front in the Monterey-California motif, and the ground floor will be remodeled into an inviting shop. N. J. Reimers is the owner.

LET'S CLEAN UP!
As this week of fire prevention ends it is inevitable that all our good resolutions about fire will begin gradually to fade from the peak of their intensity. That is human nature. That is, in fact, the reason we have Fire Prevention Week each year—to remind us of dangers we are all too prone to forget.

But now, before our heightened interest gets a chance to wane, we

W. B. Swains to Make Home Here Permanently

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Swain have returned to Marysville after supervising the beginning of remodeling on their Carmel Point home, at Valley View and Fourteenth. When the work is finished, they expect to come here to live permanently, as Mr. Swain will retire soon from the Marysville bank in which he is an official. The Hugh Comstock firm is in charge of the work, which includes the installation of a modern heating plant.

Teeny Tidbit Shoppe Will Open Tomorrow

Opening tomorrow on Dolores street is the Teeny Tidbit Shoppe owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Reed and Floyd Wheatley, who have had years of experience in their chosen field, and who promise Carmel something different and fine in the way of a soda fountain and food shop.

The new store will stock 24 kinds of home-made ice cream, a complete soda fountain and light lunch service, as well as a delicatessen department which will specialize in salads, pies and cakes, pastries, meat pies and chicken.

According to Mr. Reed everything will be home-made of the finest ingredients obtainable, and will be sold at prices which the average family can well afford.

A number of specials, advertised elsewhere in this issue of The Pine Cone will be daily features of Ye Teeny Tidbit Shoppe and may be taken as fair examples of what the all-around low prices will be. Breakfast service will be another feature of the shoppe. The opening will be tomorrow (Saturday) morning at 9 a. m.

FIRE PREVENTION

Do You Have a Fuse Box in Your Home?

If you have and you are using anything else but a fuse plug for your connection, you are certainly inviting disaster.

When a building is wired, the electrician uses materials which are intended to carry a certain amount of electricity and no more. Fuses are installed at the head of each branch circuit. Fuses are of such size and amperage that they will "blow out" when more current than intended is used. Sometimes inferior appliances are used, an overload of current results, the wire will heat and the fuse will be blown. The fuse acts as a safety valve and prevents fire as well as possible damage to electrical appliances and equipment. DO NOT PUT THE FUSE BOX OUT OF COMMISSION BY REPLACING FUSES WITH NAILS, WIRES OR COINS.

To prevent the fuses from blowing, some people put in stronger fuses. Using fuses over 15 amps. on lighting circuits is dangerous and often results in costly fires. If you have trouble with fuses blowing, it is because the circuit is overloaded. Reduce the load, or have the wiring corrected by a qualified electrician.

Play safe—Under no circumstances use pennies or other coins as seen in the above illustration.

Robert H. Duriee, Picturesque
Carmelite, Had Colorful Life

DEATH claimed Robert H. Duriee, picturesque and popular Carmelite, the morning of Oct. 4, less than a week after he celebrated his eightieth birthday. A heart attack at his home, on Carmelo between Eleventh and Twelfth, was the direct cause. Masonic funeral services conducted by the Carmel lodge were held Monday afternoon at the T. A. Dorney chapel in Monterey, followed by cremation at Santa Cruz. Surviving relatives are Mr. Duriee's wife, Mrs. Lillian K. Duriee, and a nephew, Harry Smith of Oakland. He had lived in Carmel for 19 years.

The following account of his life is taken from a manuscript written by "Bob", as he was familiarly known:

Robert H. Duriee was born in San Francisco, Sept. 30, 1855. He attended the old Powell street and Lincoln schools and later took a course at Heald's business college. After leaving school he worked for the Eastman Printing Company. He joined the Olympic Club in 1873, became proficient as an acrobat, and made his first appearance on the professional stage at Woodward's Gardens in 1874 as one of the Three Phoites.

In November 1875 they went east and appeared in most of the variety theaters of that time.

In the early part of 1876 he joined the Girard troupe, taking the place of Russell Girard, who, owing to illness, was obliged to retire from the troupe. The three Girards, Emile, Robert and Julian, made their first European appearance in London, on Aug. 26, 1876, at the Alhambra theater. The critics gave them excellent notices, and they remained at the Alhambra for eight months, returning two years later for a five months' engagement.

Then followed a tour of England with the Ellson Barrett Company. After appearing in all the principal cities of Europe, including Berlin, Breslau, Leipzig, Prague, Munich, Vienna, Bucharest, Constantinople, Rotterdam, Amsterdam, Galatz, Bordeaux and Strasburg, they played for nearly a year at the Folies Bergere in Paris, in ballets and pantomimes. The troupe disbanded in Paris, and Mr. Duriee came home.

In 1884 Gustav Walter opened the Wigwam theater, where now stands San Francisco's City of Paris department store. Mr. Duriee rejoined the old Phoite troupe and played there for two months. The troupe went east to join the Hanlon Pantomime Company, and Mr. Duriee remained in San Francisco. The Phoites were back in 1887 for the opening of Gustav Walter's Orpheum theater, and Mr. Duriee again joined them for a three months' engagement.

When the Phoite troupe went to Europe, Mr. Duriee moved to Petaluma and was in the employ of the Petaluma Fruit Packing Company for five years. Returning to San Francisco in 1893 he assisted Mr. Walter in reopening the Orpheum and took charge of the stage. In 1896 he was placed in charge of the Chicago booking office and in 1897 made transfer to New York as eastern representative of the Orpheum circuit. Owing to ill health he resigned and returned to California in 1907. He spent the winters of that and the two following years in Carmel, the summers in mining at Pöker Flat. In 1910 he was employed as librarian of the San Francisco Chronicle, returned to the Orpheum Company in 1911, in Los Angeles.

Since 1916 he had resided continuously in Carmel. He took great interest in civic affairs and was active around election times, freely expressing his opinion as to the fitness of candidates. Through articles written to the papers he has been credited with defeating aspiring candidates for reelection who in his opinion were not entitled to return to office.

Robert was honest and in street parlance a "straight shooter" on all matters for the real good of Carmel. Without fear or favor he expressed his always vigorous opinions as to the manner in which village affairs were conducted.

It was Bob Duriee who gave the name of "Tin Pan Alley" to Twenty-eighth street in New York, where at one time most of the music publishing houses were located. Passing through the street one afternoon with Epes W. Sargent, dramatic critic on the Morning Telegraph, he re-

Girl Scout Leaders of Peninsula Attend Convention In Bay Area

By MRS. WM. SLOANE COFFIN

GIRL Scouts — young and old — Girl Scouts from the United States, filled the Fairmont hotel last two from Austria, two from Denmark, two from Estonia, and two from the International Girl Guide Association in Egypt. The second pageant, presented by the Girl Scouts of Palo Alto, gave a panoramic resume of California history at the general meeting on Wednesday morning. Between these and other diversions, executives, leaders, and council members from every part of the United States were at work. In group discussions they re-appraised the Girl Scout program. Does it meet the needs of modern girls? Does it help them to become self-reliant young women, able to face the uncertain future with courage, resourcefulness, and a spirit of service as well as adventure? Does the Girl Scout program supply the opportunities for summer the fund financed three this development? These were a few of the many questions discussed by hundreds of women, whose common interest is the development of American girls into well-balanced women "with a capacity for enjoyment, for appreciation, for forebearance, for hard work," as Mrs. Herbert Hoover described them in an address of welcome to eastern delegates.

At the same meeting Mrs. Frederick Edey, president, spoke on "Keeping Pace with Current Needs," following which Dr. Robert Sproul, president of the University of California, made an address in favor of Liberalism and the well-balanced life. "It is with grateful appreciation that I contemplate the work of the Girl Scouts," said Dr. Sproul. "Nation after nation has turned from democracy and freedom to regimentation under despotic authority. This is a world from which, if the hopes of such organizations as the Girl Scouts are to be realized, must emerge a great and shining race, capable of leadership and capable of reverence for those things that are lovely, good and true.

"Today's leaders in this organization must feel a deep satisfaction in the realization that, as they help to educate tomorrow's womanhood, they are having a most important part in strengthening the fibre and creating the character of a great nation."

On Thursday, Oct. 3, the election of officers took place. Mrs. Frederick Edey, retiring president after five years of service, was unanimously elected "National Commissioner," an honorary office. Mrs. Herbert Hoover, formerly honorary vice president, was elected president. Mrs. Frederick Edey, first vice president.

Council members and leaders from the peninsula attending the convention included Mrs. Ralph A. Coote, Mrs. Gillingham, Mrs. Howard Hatton, Mrs. Millard Klein, Mrs. William Sloane Coffin, Mrs. Jean Henry Large, Mrs. Patrick Hudgins, Mrs. E. Cooke Smith, Mrs. Matthews, Mrs. Rose, Miss Veda Jacks and Miss Harverfield.

Now numbering 383,000, the national organization has increased 26,000 in membership during the past year. Indicative of their constructive program for disabled children, there are 21 blind troops, 42 for the crippled, 33 for the deaf, and 13 in various sanatoria. Ninety-two per cent of the leadership is through volunteer work.

Mr. and Mrs. Otis Berthold are living for the winter at Hotel La Playa. Mr. Berthold is the Carmel Ford agent, and his new salesrooms are being rushed to completion at the corner of Seventh and San Carlos.

Miss Janet Amphlett of San Mateo is at Hotel La Playa for a short stay.

WOMAN'S CLUB OFF TO GOOD START WITH EIGHTY PRESENT AT LUNCHEON

MORE than 80 women, attending the opening luncheon and meeting of the Woman's Club Monday at Pine Inn, were unanimous in agreeing that the club's tenth year has begun under the happiest auspices. The luncheon was a signal social success; small groups were seated at separate tables, flower-centered. After lunch the members and their guests moved to the assembly room of the Inn, where Mrs. H. S. Nye, the president, made her welcoming address and called upon Mrs. James K. Lynch, program chairman, to introduce Patricia Morbio, who also had the honor of presenting the opening program last year. Arrangements for the luncheon were capably carried through by Mrs. William E. Heathorne.

Mrs. Morbio, soprano and disease, presented a long and exacting program, giving evidence of careful research for out-of-the-ordinary songs and verses, and considerable originality in arrangement. A group of old English songs opened the program, for which the entertainer wore a particularly lovely costume; panniered white taffeta over an under-dress of pink brocade; a blue ribbon wound about golden curls and dainty blue shoes; pink camillias on her shoulder and in her hair. The songs were "The Lark in the Morn," "The Wraggle-Taggle Gypsies," "Mowing the Barley" and "My Man John," all by Somerset.

For the second group, of Chinese sketches, Mrs. Morbio wore an authentic old costume from the collection of Albert Bender, with a priceless kingfisher-feather headdress. Her gestures and explanatory remarks were in tradition, the little songs were charming and unusual. Dr. Henry Hart translated many of them specially for Mrs. Morbio.

Mrs. Morbio's "songs for children" are always particularly enjoyed, playing for the first time on the especially her ability to turn her mobile, pretty face into the countenance of a cross little boy, or a little girl in whose mouth butter will not melt. "Me and John," "The Good Little Girl," two zoo songs, "The Porcupine" and "The Python," two little boy songs about soap and fishing; "Three Policemen" and two by John Alden Carpenter, "When the Night Comes" and "The Very Bad Child" composed this group.

"Songs NOT for Children" had just enough of light, sophisticated naughtiness, and the program closed with a group of thumbnail sketches of Hollywood notables, inspired by an Ogden Nash verse about Greta Garbo, and written by Mrs. Morbio herself.

Beatrice Anthony, her accompanist, arranged atmospheric music for the latter, and gave most effective support to the disease throughout the program. She had the honor of herself.

the club's new piano, an Estey of fine tone. This recent purchase will augment the music possibilities of club programs, and is an acquisition which members viewed with pride.

In her opening address Mrs. Nye enunciated the club's policy in regard to civic affairs. Members of other organizations will be welcomed to explain their activities and objectives and to ask for support of the Woman's Club. No endorsements will be made or "stands" taken, because of the variety of opinions held by members of the club as a representative and democratic organization.

During the tea hour which followed, a birthday cake was cut in honor of the club's tenth anniversary. Mrs. Calvert Meade and Miss Elizabeth Allcutt presided at the tea table.

Out-of-Towners at Luncheon

AMONG those attending the opening luncheon of the Woman's Club at Pine Inn Monday were a number of prominent out-of-town visitors. Honored guests were Mrs. William Palmer Lucas, a director of the Women's City Club in San Francisco and chairman of current events; Mrs. Frank Sellers of Pasadena, where she is prominent in club work, aided in organizing the famed Pasadena community players, and one-time president of the Garden Club of America, Mrs. W. C. Cummings, president of Monterey's Monday Afternoon Club and the following members: Mrs. J. B. Wright, Mrs. Hugo Futterer, Mrs. Jack Farrell and Mrs. W. H. Hare; Mrs. Mixer, president of the Los Gatos Woman's Club, Mrs. Stone, the vice-president, Mrs. Rose Morbio and Mrs. Douglass of the same organization, attended the program which followed the luncheon.

Others seen at the tables were: Mesdames Maude Arndt, Leslie Armstrong, G. F. Beardsley, Clara L. Beller, Byron, Frederic Burt, Jennie V. Cannon, Crane, A. F. Fire Prevention Program Given

Fire prevention, the specialty of the Carmel volunteer fire department, was the subject of the program for the monthly educational meeting of the four fire departments of the peninsula held Monday evening in Pacific Grove. Four members of the Carmel department put on the program, Paul Funchess discussing electrical hazards in the home, Chief Bob Leidig, the perils of careless smoking; Paul Mercurio, spontaneous ignition and B. W. Adams, chimneys and flues.

The meeting next month will be at the Highlands firehouse, and Pacific Grove department will be responsible for the program. Their specialty is the use of ropes, and "Ropes, Knots and Hitches" will be discussed and their use in fire-fighting demonstrated.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Workman and their two sons, Bill and Ralph, left Monday for several week's vacation in the southern part of the state and Mexico. The Exposition at San Diego will occupy much of their time.

A group of young people gathered at the home of Miss Betty Uzzell, Saturday night to celebrate the victory of the football squad over Gilroy.

With Miss Mabel Hoffman in charge, members of the Muricata Club held a meeting in the solarium at Holman's. A round table discussion about the African coast was enjoyed.

Reader Reactions

Editor The Pine Cone:

As you know, San Francisco is celebrating its 100th birthday anniversary next month with a Century of Commerce celebration from Oct. 14 to 19. We are sending you this letter as an official invitation to your citizens to visit this celebration and to join with us in paying tribute to the wonderful pioneers whose courage and vision left our state its glorious and golden heritage which we today enjoy.

San Francisco's great growth would have never been possible without the support of all its neighboring cities, not only today, but during the pioneer period as well.

Therefore, we hope that as many of your citizens as can will visit our fete and join with us in celebrating this glamorous anniversary which means so much to us all.

Del Monte Brands
Introduce New Cans

One of the highlights of the Del Monte brands food sale being held at several grocery stores in Carmel this week-end is the new one and one-fourth size can of pineapples.

Del Monte has put this new size flat can on the market as an accommodation to the housewife who does not wish to purchase the large size while the small can is insufficient.

The "march of flavor" sale is being held at Ewig's Grocery, Post-office Grocery, Market Del Mar and Hallett's Grocery.

ROADS BEING IMPROVED

Work will start soon on the following road projects in Monterey county: Lewis Creek to Priest Valley; 1-2 miles to be graded and surfaced. Partington Canyon to Big Sur; 8.8 miles to be graded. Grading and paving 8 miles from Soledad to Gonzales.

New Pictures at Art Gallery

OCTOBER visitors at the Carmel Art Association gallery on Dolores will find nearly 50 small oil paintings hung in the main room, and an additional showing of watercolors and prints in the small room to the left of the entrance. The main exhibit would be more interesting if it were more unusual. Small paintings is what we are most used to, and an entire exhibit of these little works, so far from representative of the best efforts of the resident painters, is little cause for rejoicing. Whole sections of the walls are so poorly lighted that it becomes something of a task trying to see the pictures individually. Granted that the art gallery space is limited and its membership large, we wonder if it would not be possible sometime soon to have a show of fewer and larger paintings, carefully culled from the very best the peninsula has to offer. A rather extra special exhibit, perhaps with invitations sent out for a preview?

And here is another suggestion—I'm sure the artists will be grateful for these gratuitous ideas—why not a series of one-man shows in one of the smaller rooms? It is impossible to obtain a really comprehensive idea of any artist's work by seeing one or two of his or her paintings each month. To be absolutely fair they might be so honored in alphabetical order. It might create a bit of excitement, a feeling among local art-lovers and visitors that something is really going on at the art gallery.

The "picture of the month" in this hanging is a large canvas, in the special space on the far wall, by William Watts, called "Sea Mist." Admirable in composition and balance, it presents an arrangement of twisted, eerie cypress roots and branches with the unusual color treatment which characterizes Mr. Watts' work; a rugged Lobos cliff and leaden sea beyond.

Inevitably dominating the show are two of John O'Shea's new Mexican paintings. His "Jag-Mescal," is a white-clothed peon in a sodden heap like a bundle of washing at the foot of a beautiful, majestic pillar. The composition and drawing are exquisite, the colors a series of warm grays and white. His other entry is one of his portraits of the "holy man"—study to give one pause.

In the exhibit of water colors and prints a particularly fine drawing is Paul Whitman's "Rancho"; a study of buildings, fences and many homely details, with a particularly fine arrangement of lights and shadows; blacks and white, soft and warmly treated, but incisive in execution.

Patient visitors will find many little gems in the show, which includes the following other artists: George Seideneck, C. Chapel Judson, George Kotch, Armin Hansen, Myron Oliver, Thomas McGlynn, William Ritschel, M. DeNeale Morgan, Edward Fristrom, Burton Boundey, Emma Kraft, Jennie Vannerstrom Cannon, Leslie B. Wulff, Paul Dougherty, in the oil section, and among the watercolors and prints, Burton Boundey, Rose Crossman, Cash Hough-telling, Free Dean and Armin Hansen.—T. B. M.

Carmel Committee Prepares to Launch Community Chest Drive

CHOOSING as their campaign slogan, "Charity begins at home, but does not end there," Carmel leaders began preparing this week for the forthcoming Community Chest drive on the peninsula. The fund-raising campaign starts Nov. 4, continuing until Saturday, Nov. 9.

Interest runs high throughout the peninsula this year, in the chest campaign, and Dr. John R. Gray, organization colonel for Carmel, has stated that his group will do all in their power to make it a success.

Working with Dr. Gray, as captains, are Charles Berkey, James Thoburn, James Cockburn, Byington Ford and James Regan. John A. Davis will direct the campaign as general.

"As Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt pointed out in her plea to charity workers throughout the nation this week," said Dr. Gray, "the need for money is greater than ever this year because of the fact that the federal government is withdrawing as rapidly as possible from the field of home relief."

The Carmel Girl Scouts, a character-building organization, is one of the chest agencies. It has had to curtail its activities this year, along with other organizations, because last year's campaign fell far short of the goal set. Mrs. Ralph Coote is Girl Scout commissioner for the peninsula.

Although not a chest agency, the Carmel Red Cross workers in close harmony with the organization and has offered to cooperate with it in every way. Especially does this group work with the chest office in eliminating duplication of relief.

It is because of the fact that only one Carmel organization is a chest agency that the leaders have adopted the slogan, "Charity begins at home, but does not end there."

"We must act in a spirit of neighborliness," said Dr. Grey, "and show that Carmel is willing to do its share in caring for the needy on the peninsula."

Skonhoff in Well-Chosen Program Pleases Mixed Audience at Gallery

By ALAN CAMPBELL

SEVERAL musicians were present at Steen Skonhoff's song recital at the Denny-Watrous Gallery last Saturday evening. This critical audience was won over by the singer's rendition of the opening number, Scarlatti's "Sento nel Core."

Skonhoff's baritone is of a singularly personal texture and the smoothness and purity of his legato was a constant delight.

The choice of program was excellent throughout, leading from Old Italian, German and Norwegian leider to four songs by Ernst Bacon.

Of the Schubert group, "Die Krahe" was outstanding for its beautiful phrasing and restrained feeling. "Die Post" sung as an encore, was taken somewhat slower than usual, though the expression rose to glad expectancy at the climaxes.

The four Norwegian songs, sung in their native tongue, made one realize what a wealth of lyricism exists in Norway. Thorvald Lammers' "Solvet" (Silver) was quietly majestic, like an exalted prayer. Grieg's simple "Dear Old Mother" touched the most appreciative audience.

It was the closing group—"Songs at Parting"—composed by Ernst Bacon, who accompanied the singer—around which most interest was centered. These songs are in an entirely new idiom and the fact that their interpretation demands a new approach is probably the reason why they are so seldom heard.

Skonhoff sang them admirably and with considerable economy of voice, frequently allowing the tremendous accompaniment to dominate.

I should have enjoyed hearing the Walt Whitman texts read beforehand. "The Last Invocation" was the most appealing and comprehensible at first hearing, though "Darest Thou Now, O Soul" is unquestionably the biggest of the group. All four songs possessed a mystical atmosphere carrying out Whitman's words. One hopes that Bacon's songs will appear

Flavin Play With Walter Hampden In New York Premier

With Walter Hampden in the title role, Martin Flavin's new play, "Achilles Had a Heel" opened last night in the 44th Street theater in New York City. The Flavins, who are spending the winter in the east, were to attend the premier. During Hampden's California visit last spring he was starred in the west coast production of this play at the Pasadena Community Playhouse.

The audience demanded that Skonhoff encore with Bacon's folksong "Low-Bridge." It has really become Skonhoff's song.

Wm. Fleming, Pianist To Appear at Gallery

A piano recital which lovers of keyboard music will not miss is that of William Fleming, American pianist, whom the Denny-Watrous Gallery is presenting next week, on Saturday evening, Oct. 19.

Mr. Fleming has returned to his native California after a long sojourn in Europe. He has become well-known in England, Germany, Italy and Czechoslovakia. Since returning to California he has been engaged to open the Los Angeles Ebell Club winter of music and to play for a number of the universities.

In his Carmel concert Mr. Fleming will play Bach, Brahms, a modern group, and a group of Chopin.

HARRIET SMITH WILL GIVE DRAMATIC COURSE

Of interest to students of the drama, those who want to act for the fun of it and those who have professional aspirations is the course in the speaking voice, which Harriet Smith will give under the sponsorship of the Denny-Watrous Gallery. The course, covering a period of six weeks, with two two-hour sessions a week, will cover voice production, voice placement, diction, and phonetic reading. The course is limited to 15, and is fundamental in stage technique.

Filmarte's New Bills Announced

Another week of exceptional motion picture values is scheduled for Filmarte theater, according to Manager Richard Bare, who announces Charles Bickford will be the star tonight and tomorrow night in "A Notorious Gentleman," one of the best vehicles this star has had in many months.

Sunday, Monday and Tuesday will be highlights of the week with a film which is very much hinged up with the present chaotic conditions in Europe. This play is the story of an armament maker who is played by Lionel Atwill. In the cast also are Claude Rains, Joan Bennett and a charming child, Baby Jane. Of course there are other roles which bring in the full gamut from making the deadly war munitions to the battle fields.

Another of those foreign films which are so much in demand and so hard to find upon the screen in this country will be shown on Wednesday and Thursday of next week. This time the picture comes from Spain with dialogue in English. Chaliapin will appear as that lovable fictional character "Don Quixote," the title part.

Quick Study Aid to Local Actors

What was Director Harriet Smith's surprise to find at the first rehearsal of "The Trial of Mary Dugan," Tuesday evening at the Green Room, that two members of the large cast were already letter-perfect in their parts, and with their characterizations well in hand. The wizards are W. C. Shiels, who plays the part of the detective captain, with damning evidence against the accused murderer, and Milton Latham, who has a black-face role as the elevator boy in the apartment house where the wealthy and socially prominent Edgar Rice was found dead on the morning of April 19. The play, opening the Community Players season, will be given Oct. 25 and 26, at the Playhouse.

Milt Latham says all he has to do is put his part under the pillow and sleep on it; next morning the lines are miraculously in his head—an old trick of veteran actors. He is in luck to be able to learn lines so rapidly, as his work on designing and overseeing the building of the elaborate courtroom set leaves him little time for "boning" on his part.

Most of Carmel's stellar dramatists are cast in "Mary Dugan" as well as several new-comers. The play has an unusually large cast, and several roles had not yet been assigned when the company met for what, for most of them, was the first reading Tuesday evening. Sibyl Leonard has the title role, a strong, dramatic part which will give full scope to this experienced and able actress. George McMenamin has the role of the younger brother who comes unexpectedly to her defense. Others in the cast are Byington Ford, E. A. H. Watson, Scott Douglas, Thom Neikirk, Dr. W. B. Williams, Richard

"More than $400 have been expended by our Red Cross chapter during the past year for milk for needy babies and children," said Mrs. Karl Rendtorff, chairman to the board of directors, at the quarterly meeting held in Community Church, Wednesday afternoon.

The milk bottle has netted about $40 so far this year, it was reported, and increasing supplies of clothing are coming into headquarters. All the clothing that cannot be used among the unfortunates of Carmel is being delivered to the Salvation Army.

Mrs. John Herbert Morse, chairman for the November roll call reported that already she had received pledges from 26 volunteers to aid in the campaign and that she was now engaged in building an advance subscription committee.

Live Rattlesnake to Illustrate Lecture

A live rattlesnake will be used for demonstration in the fifteenth consecutive program on the Hispanic Southwest at the Aztec studio shop next Wednesday evening at 8:15. Paul Ruthling will give an informal talk on "Rattlesnakes and Their Habits." The proper atmosphere will be built up by playing the recorded music of an Indian ceremony, the Hopi snake dance chant. Discussion and questions will follow the talk. Those desiring to attend are requested to register beforehand at the Aztec studio shop where the talk will be given, continuing a series pertaining to the experiences of a naturalist in Mexico.

TO OUR NEW SUBSCRIBERS

The Pine Cone has been much gratified by the increase in circulation, entirely unsolicited and without special promotional activities, that marked this summer season and was particularly noticeable as the summer season ended. The story was the same in many cases:

"We have spent the summer here and have been buying The Pine Cone on the street. We are in love with Carmel, and intend to come here to live as soon as possible. We want you to send us The Pine Cone so that we can keep in touch until next summer, or until we can come back to live."

In talking with these future Carmelites or part time Carmelites, the noteworthy thing is that they are the "right" sort of people; the only sort that Carmel wants. People of culture, who want to live quietly, appreciating the unique beauty of the village and its surroundings. Often enough to be typical, the new subscriber requests—"Keep Carmel as it is, don't let it change!"

In contrast is the gradual infiltration of another sort of newcomer, from which we must depend largely on the good faith of our real estate people to protect us, bulwarked by the effective city and county zoning ordinances. The get-rich-quicker who see in the prospective opening of the great state highway a chance to scoop up profits without regard to what will happen to the community in the process. There have been numerous inquiries about locations for new service stations and auto camps. Absolute incredulity meets the response that Carmel does not want this type of business, together with the comment that Carmel is full of moss-backs and needs wakening up.

There can be no doubt as to which type of new resident Carmel wants; the one who wishes to exploit us, our traditions and our beauty, or those who want to work with us in preserving all that. Now, more than ever before, the decision must be clean-cut, the resistance to "progress" of the highway-business type more determined than ever before. There was a time when Laguna had something of the beauty and the character of Carmel. Quick and easy money had its way there—it is now just another little coast town bisected by a major highway complete with service stations, hot-dog stands and motor courts.

For the benefit of our new subscribers and our friends of twenty years standing, The Pine Cone repeats its frequent promise; to do all in its power to preserve the old Carmel, moss-backs and all.

REAL COMMUNITY PLAYERS

The dramatic history of Carmel has been marked with unhappy incidents almost inevitable among gifted individualists with their full share of artistic temperament. A genuine effort is being made at the beginning of this winter dramatic season to heal the rifts of the past and to unite all the people who have helped to make history here in one harmonious organization. It is an honest effort, well worth support. There may be people here who would enjoy working with a dramatic group, but whose aspirations are unknown to the members of the organization. The invitation to come forward and volunteer to participate are sincere and without strings attached.

If this venture succeeds, and there is no good reason why it should not, we will have better shows and less quarreling in the future. No more will there be two or more shows in production at the same time, conflicting dates and competition for an over-worked audience. The players themselves, the people who do the work, have promised to see to this.

OCTOBER

*Rich with a thousand fallen leaves and mossed with renascence
 The deep of the forest gives breast to the youngling autumn
 Ripening him in silence, reluctantly trusting his feet
 Into the ruddy play of the boisterous wood-gods.
 Eager with golden pride and lush for recurrent fulfillment
 Thrills the earth-mother to the swift drum of his fleet
 Chase with the dappled fawn, his race with the southerning wing
 His wild frost-cry of triumph for the first bough reddening.*

*Sun-drunken, color-mad pagan this, riotous striking her heart
 here
 With young stride crisp on the paths of remembered seasons,
 Fern-sweet springs and head-heavy, lolling summers
 And rime-spent winters. Rich with a thousand fallen days
 Flushed late with desire, and rosy with sylvan ritual, Throbbing with beauty earth-mother lies in the bed of the year.*

—MARY WRIGHT.

THE FOG

*Soft, silvery fog, like charity's veil,
 Enshrouding the hill and wooded dale.
 You mantle the cottage, old and grim,
 Till it looks as if fairies dwelt within.*

*Are you a lovely, gracious thought,
 That clothes with beauty each object sought,
 And with tender pity and gentle caress,
 Softens this old world's ruggedness?*

—MARY E. COLLINS.

Here's Looking at You

BY LOIS COLLINS PALMER

WHAT a fine thing it is that a society is made up of people of all ages—as we have occasion to realize in Carmel oftener than in other communities which seem to belong more exclusively to those of active working age. Life has an added savour with the active participation of the children and the old people. Sunset school and its teeming life has a large place in our hearts and a position of leadership in village activities; the children are not thrust into the background as in more humdrum, workaday towns.

Carmel has a great respect for and pride in her many remarkable elderly people. We felt this rather poignantly not long ago, at the farewell tea for Mrs. De Yoe. People of all ages were there, their hearts going out in affection to Mrs. De Yoe and dear gallant Mrs. Ellen Rose, who spoke so graciously; two cultured, well-rounded women who have lived significant and flavorful lives.

George Marion, deplored the passing of his old friend, De Wolfe Hopper, and of other old actors who brought so much of glamour and imagination to the theater, wonders if the stage will ever regain its former glory. Even as he talks, I wonder if he really needs to worry. It seems to him that the younger people have not the concern with technique that the old school of actors had. But those oldsters must have passed through a period of ragged uncertainty before they reached their full stature. There is so much that only age and experience can give. So many young actors we have known have an adoring regard for the older actors and the traditions of the stage. They fall short still of expressing all that they want to, but they have the ideal, and they work toward it through the years, slowly, but I think definitely.

No Carmelites have a prettier view than the Robert Leidigs, who live smack in the heart of the business district. Their second-floor apartment has a terrace on the east, and over the parapet you look down into the little court in the heart of the Leidig building. A spot of green lawn, flowers, and birds. On the lower tile roofs adjacent bougainvillea and trumpet vines spread a mass of blossoms.

SOAKING THE THRIFTY

There has been much talk about "soaking the thrifty" through taxation lately. It occurs to us that the country seems to have forgotten, in the growing dissatisfaction with the Roosevelt regime, how thoroughly and successfully the thrifty were soaked about 1929. Remember those good old days when we cherished the illusion that anyone could get rich, or at least provide for a comfortable old age, by saving money, investing in good sound securities? We, and you and you, lived sensibly, avoided spending all our earned income on riotous living, as did some of our grasshopper friends, avoided pure gambles, such as were offered by wildcat oil and mining stocks, and put our money into "good sound industrials." We thought we were helping to build up our great state and nation, too, by providing the fuel which kept the wheels of industry turning. We helped to build sky-scraper office buildings in the cities, to build mills and factories and cotton-gins, to provide building-and-loan companies with the monies to loan to little people like ourselves to build homes. We helped — and how lavishly—Mr. Giannini along in his dreams of banking and holding company grandeur.

And where are our savings today? Ah, where are the snows of yester year? We were thrifty, and how we were soaked. The sky-scrapers we helped to build are empty of tenants. The mills and the factories are idle, or feebly moving, and the men and women to whom they were to give employment are on the dole. Some of the building-and-loan executives to whose delinquency we innocently contributed are languishing in the penitentiary. The bank and bank holding company stocks which soared high despite their cargo of water have passed through the wringer. And we wonder if our grasshopper friends, who have a lot of pleasant memories at least, may not have helped to stave off the depression, which we, with our innocent thrift, helped to precipitate. Instead of spending, we saved, thereby contributing to the mass of undigested capital, drawing money from brisk circulation and reducing the total purchasing power. The Securities bill, which offered us some protection against a recurrence of what happened before, has been bitterly attacked and probably will be declared unconstitutional sooner or later. The holding company bill, which would protect investors to some extent against their own ignorance was fought with hundreds of thousands of dollars of our money. And a taxation plan which would draw our surplus funds from unwise and unnecessary investment and return direct benefits to the people who have nothing to save, that is "soaking the thrifty." Oh yeah?

TWENTY YEARS AGO

We may have thought we had discovered something new, were extra astute in viewing with alarm the benefits to munitions makers and other international big businesses, including banks, of keeping the war spirit alive in the world. A few people, it seems, have been saying that for a long time, but to politely deaf ears. Witness is a story in the files of The Pine Cone, 20 years ago. A former Russian army officer lectured here, and here is a paragraph from the story about him:

"The lieutenant is opposed to armaments. He believes that when a nation creates a large army and a great navy it is bound to be used. He solemnly warned his hearers against militarism, and he asserted that commercialism is back of battleship building. The common people of the warring nations have no quarrel with one another, he says."

League of Women Voters Holds Annual Convention at Del Monte

SMALL, highly selective, though not socially exclusive, is the League of Women Voters. It is an organization that only intelligent and intellectually active women care to join. Outside of the San Francisco Bay area, membership of which dominates the state League, Monterey county ranks high for numbers and value of work accomplished. State legislators keep an ear to the ground when these active and wide-awake women are in session; for this reason the annual state convention at Del Monte Tuesday and Wednesday of this week was important enough for San Francisco newspapers to send a corps of correspondents down to cover it, although delegates registered numbered only a few over a hundred.

Mrs. Carl Voss, Monterey county president, was elected a vice president of the league, and Mrs. Ethel P. Young of Pebble Beach, one of the directors. The presidency returned to Mrs. Paul Eliel for the third time.

On the opening day social war against unemployment and strict neutrality and arbitration methods against actual warfare were two of the points in the "nine-point program" to be pursued intensively this year, up for discussion. Unanimously passed was a resolution to Governor Merriam, expressing gratification at the passage of the unemployment compensation bill by which $20,000,000 annually will be contributed by employers in California. At the Wednesday luncheon it was stated by R. C. Stillwell, assistant director of the state employment service, that this program may be under way by the first of the year.

At the Tuesday luncheon the league bore down heavily on one of its pet projects; promotion of the merit system in government service. Feared by political patronage machines is the vigilant feminine group which had much to do with passage of the constitutional amendment incorporating the merit system in the fundamental law of the state. William Browrigg, executive of the state personnel board discussed accomplishments to date and warned of the efforts of old-line politicians to undermine confidence in the merit system. Other speakers on the same topic were W. Herbert Graham, secretary and chief examiner of the state civil service commission, State Senator Sanborn Young, chairman of the senate civil service investigation committee and Harry P. Royer, secretary of the state employees association.

Paradox of modern neutrality in time of war, when a state rigorously abstains from giving aid or comfort to either side, but its citizens, as individuals, enjoy a brisk trade with both, was described as one of the perils of the day by Edwin D. Dickinson, U. C. professor of international law, at the Tuesday evening banquet. Not munitions makers alone, but exporters of raw materials need watching in the current conflict. Neutrality legislation of the U. S., however, has greatly strengthened the hand of the League of Nations in the present crisis, he said.

At a special legislative session Wednesday morning the league reaffirmed its stand in favor of more effective enforcement of the minimum wage law for women. It was pointed out that due to the depression there have been numerous violations of this law and failure of the legislature to set aside a fund for making a survey in this connection made it almost impossible to find out actual conditions. The League also took a strong position in regard to the women's prison at Tehachapi, advocating its use as a reformatory rather than penitentiary and that it be completely divorced from San Quentin, administered by a board predominantly feminine.

Speaker before the general session was Richard Chamberlain, assistant district attorney of Alameda county, who pointed out need of co-ordinated law enforcement agencies.

Most definite word yet reaching the peninsula as to the administration of the new WPA was given by John L. Bacon, assistant state administrator, pinch-hitting for Frank Y. McLaughlin, chief WPA executive, who was unable to fill his engagement. Coordinating his talk with those given previously by Stillwell of the employment service and Mrs. Katherine Bangs' graphic description of actual procedures in her Alameda county employment office, Bacon described the program as one of the most stupendous ever undertaken by a governmental agency, one still widely misunderstood and unjustly criticized, because the exceptional cases of "chiselers and leapers" come more to public attention than those accomplishments of which the agency can well be proud. A chain of efficient government employment agencies clear across the country, which employers will learn are trustworthy will be one means of getting the government out of the business of relief, he believes, as helping to keep workers in their own communities, rather than setting them adrift to regions where work opportunities are better organized.

If no more is accomplished than teaching employers to make adequate use of these state employment agencies, consequent drawing off of relief clients to private employment, he said, the program will have been worth while. He explained basic rates of the "security wage," which will vary as to size of the community, ranging from $40 per month in the smaller counties, for unskilled work by gradual advance through intermediate, skilled and professional workers to a high of $61, while in the larger counties the range will be from $55 to $95. This will be based on 120 hours work a month. California has been divided into 12 districts, representing county groupings except in Los Angeles and San Francisco, where the county itself is the unit. All WPA workers must be registered with the regional employment agency, and SERA will continue as a social service branch.

Aid Given By Red Cross Locally Cited by President of Carmel Unit

"THERE seems to be a great ground swell throughout the nation for the human needs program about to be launched through local organizations," said Mrs. Karl Rendorff, chairman Carmel Chapter American Red Cross today. "Our chapter is a definite relief agency and has accepted a community duty beyond the regular program of the national organization."

"We will launch upon Armistice day, Nov. 11, continuing through to Thanksgiving, an organized effort to raise our budget for local and national needs," continued Mrs. Rendorff. "We have reached out into the community during the past year and brought definite aid to hundreds of people through proper medical aid, home relief, emergency services and in numberless ways. The demands upon our chapter gives promise of becoming even greater during the coming year, for the various Federal relief agencies will gradually turn over all emergency service to local agencies."

"There are two high purposes which we should always keep before us as goals worthy of attaining," said Admiral Cary T. Grayson in announcing plans for the annual Red Cross roll call:

"First: a continued day by day expansion of the service we can give our fellow citizens for their safety, their health, the mitigation of their suffering, and second: to see that the privilege of being a member of the Red Cross is extended personally to every man and woman."

In the past, the relief and educational programs of the federal government have brought calls upon the Red Cross for many supplemental services. The month by month record of vital welfare work done through disaster relief, war service, public health nursing, home hygiene and care of the sick, first aid and life-saving and Junior Red Cross, greatly emphasizes the need for their continuation and expansion everywhere.

"The Red Cross must be prepared to further cooperate in helping meet local needs by reason of the announcement of the Federal Emergency Relief Administration that unemployables will henceforth be the responsibility of local committees. We must be prepared, too, to move along very soon in an expanded home and highway safety program.

All these things indicate that a larger Red Cross membership is necessary to insure greater service to your community and to the nation.

B. W. Adams Receives Boulder Dam Stamp

A "Boulder Dam first day cover" which is the cryptic way philatelists have of describing an envelope adorned with a newly issued stamp and cancelled on the first day they go on sale, is a possession of which B. W. Adams is duly proud, as one of Carmel's most active stamp-collectors. It was mailed to him from Boulder Dam by a friend on Sept. 30, the day the stamps commemorating the dedication of the dam were issued. Boulder Dam handled more mail that day than the post office of New York city, all because of the intense interest of stamp collectors in new issues, and the extra value of first day covers. Mr. Adams' letter was the first of these covers received at Carmel post office.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene O. Thompson and their three daughters have returned for the winter to Fresno, where they are opening a new home.
